1. The physical magnitude of the request is unbelievably large -- re the amount of papers, etc.
 2. No way we could respond without White House approval which we assume White House would not grant
 3. Producers of this intelligence -- nor normally forthcoming -- would want White House to deny because of sensitivity.
 4. Perhaps they could more sharply narrow their request and state very specifically what they want -- it might turn out to be something we could comply with -- something not as large or as sensitive.

Select Committee on Intelligence
U.S. House of Representatives
Washington, D.C. 20515

November 4, 1975

Mr. Donald Gregg
Intelligence Review Staff
Central Intelligence Agency
Washington, D.C.

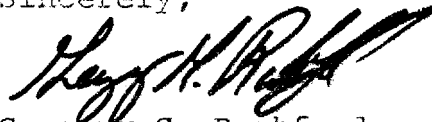

Dear Mr. Gregg:

This is to request on behalf of the House Select Committee on Intelligence all National Intelligence Estimates and similar interagency and agency memoranda relating to the SALT I and Validovstock nuclear arms agreements with the Soviet Union. In addition, would you please deliver to the Committee any assessments relating to Soviet adherence to the provisions of these agreements which the Central Intelligence Agency has produced?

Due to the press of Committee business I should appreciate your making as many of these documents available in your offices at Langley on Thursday morning, November 6, as can be located; the balance to be delivered to the Committee's offices in a reasonable time.

Thank you for your assistance in this matter.

Sincerely,

Gregory G. Rushford
For the Committee
